Dear

At the time of my last report in May 2025, the Indian summer crop was standing tall in the fields of Gujarat and we were scared from both the quality and quantity angles, due to some forecasts for heavy rainfall prior to harvest. Indeed, we did have fairly severe rainfall in many areas but since this was not accompanied by strong winds, we did not face any quantity challenges. However, we are facing some small quality challenges for the good quality whitish cargo that we need for our shipments of Natural Whitish Sesame to Korea as well as other parts of the world including for home consumption.

While we have to be extra selective with our purchases and even sortex the cargo once more if required, we are happy that we are able to meet buyers requirements. However, this has led to a slightly larger price spread between the better and weaker qualities of sesame seed for the current summer crop, as compared to previous years. As a result, we now have a situation which has left a gap of just USD. 40 – 50 per ton between the price of a Gujarat Natural Sesame, Sortex grade with 99.95 % purity and a Gujarat Hulled Sesame with 99.98 % purity, a processed sesame seed. There have been some days earlier this month where the gap was just USD. 20 – 25 per ton.

The Korean Tender was awarded yesterday, and India already saw its share drop from 100% in the previous tender to just 40% ( 3000 MT ) for the current tender. On a personal note, I don't see much chance for India to remain competitive in regards to these Korean tenders for the next 3 – 4 months until our new crop is harvested. The hulled sesame which we are currently selling between USD. 1400 – 1500 pmt levels remains the cheapest in the world and we continue to have a lion's share of this business.

Imports have been slow for the last 2 – 3 months. Save for some Brazil old crop material that is on its way to India and basis local pricing, we do not expect India to be a serious importer for the next 2 – 3 months, unless we have offers around or below USD. 900.00 pmt cfr basis to tempt us.

Along with India, we have supply from Brazil, Pakistan, Tanzania and Mozambique in the pipeline for the next 3 months. We seem to have adequate global supply, and buyers would be spoilt for choice and end up playing one origin against the other to possibly drive prices even lower than what they are today.

Current price levels for new crop sesame to be shipped during July – September 2025, on fob basis are as follows –

Natural Whitish 98/2/1 : USD. 1250.00 pmt

Natural Whitish 99/1/1 : USD. 1275.00 pmt
